

Investment Company

Capital market participants—including securities firms, asset management companies, and trust companies—play diverse and critical roles in market transactions. These institutions handle a broad range of financial investment products and maintain direct legal relationships with investors and financial consumers. As such, they require precise, comprehensive, and commercially practical legal support.

At Shin & Kim, we provide a full spectrum of legal services to financial investment companies. Our services include advising on responses to regulatory inspections and enforcement actions, internal compliance matters, and licensing and registration requirements. We also advise on transaction structures involving financial investment companies, provide legal solutions for the development, distribution, and management of new financial investment products, and offer consulting on internal control systems—including internal regulations—aligned with developments in capital markets laws. In addition, we assist with requests for authoritative interpretations of capital markets regulations, conduct comparative legal research on foreign jurisdictions (including the United States and Japan), and coordinate closely with leading international law firms.

We place particular emphasis on achieving optimal outcomes by combining rigorous legal analysis with a practical understanding of market dynamics and stakeholder interests. To this end, we maintain a collaborative network with professionals from financial investment companies, as well as with key institutions such as the Financial Services Commission (FSC), the Financial Supervisory Service (FSS), the Korea Exchange, and the Korea Financial Investment Association.

Building on this integrated approach, we are committed to delivering reliable, timely, and high-quality legal services grounded in a comprehensive understanding of the financial investment industry, enabling our clients to achieve the best possible outcomes.
