Mr. Seongki Park is currently a partner at Shin & Kim and focuses on litigation and advisory work in human resources and labor law.

Since joining Shin & Kim in 2003, Mr. Park's work has focused mainly on litigation and advisory matters related to human resources and labor law. He has extensive experience in this area, having handled a wide range of cases in the field of labor law, including dismissal or disciplinary proceedings, illegal secondment/disguised contracting, redundancy, ordinary wage disputes, severance pay disputes for special categories of workers, discrimination disputes, fixed-term employees' right to renewal, and workplace harassment disputes.

Notably, Mr. Park represented KORAIL in the appellate case involving the illegal secondment of female KTX crew members, and SsangYong Motor Company in the case to overturn a redundancy decision filed by dismissed employees. In both cases, he successfully overturned the original decision. Mr. Park has achieved similar success in many other appellate cases, earning a reputation for having in-depth knowledge and expertise in labor law.

With his outstanding track record, Mr. Park is recognized as a recommended lawyer in labor law by Legal 500, Legal Times, and other prominent legal journals.

Mr. Park graduated from Seoul National University College of Law, completed the 32nd class of the Judicial Research and Training Institute, and holds a Master of Laws degree (LL.M.) from the University of Southern California Law School.
