Mr. Dae Sub Jang started working for the National Assembly of Korea after passing the 12th Higher-Civil Service Examination in 1994. During the 26 years of his career as a legislative branch official for the National Assembly, he performed critical duties by serving in various positions including chief expert member of the Land and Transport Committee and House Steering Committee, public relations officer, head of the Proceedings Bureau, and head of the Planning and Coordination Office.

Especially, during his service as the head of the Proceedings Bureau, he periodically analyzed and summarized the general moves of the National Assembly and established necessary countermeasures by reporting to the National Assembly's Speaker. He also ensured that the National Assembly would operate smoothly by assisting in devising scenarios to help the Speaker prepare for various situations that might occur during the National Assembly's plenary sessions. Such career laid the foundation for him to develop techniques to identify the essence of issues and cultivate problem-solving abilities.

During his service as a chief expert member, he conducted preliminary research on legislative bills to be discussed in relevant committees, and comprehensively identified the positions of each political parties, the government, and other interested parties. Based on the research, he prepared review reports and provided explanations in subcommittees, which contributed to high legislative performance in processing bills.
